

Glacier Confections Sweetens Brady's Bunch

We must confess that we love only one thing more than bacon, and it is actually healthier for us: chocolate. It is the rare person who fails to perk up for chocolate. And when the chocolates are plural, life is grand, indeed.

Glacier Confections is the creation of world-class chocolatier Bill Copeland. Between his prodigious, hands-on knowledge and the love with which he approaches his craft, Copeland has made sure the scrumptious chocolates found right here in Tulsa's Brady District are simply among the best on the planet.

Dessert from Glacier Confections can easily be the high point of any meal, and a truffle as a snack (or two ... or three or four) is decidedly decadent. The taste combinations take the experience to a whole new level of chocolate heaven. Choose, if you can, between Bananas Foster caramel, Black Forest infused with almond and cherry tones, Hawaiian chocolate ganache with mango and habanera, panna cotta dark, coconut pecan caramel and all the regulars from peanut butter cups to turtles. We cannot get enough of ... drum roll ... caramel maple bacon. Go figure!

Mister's oral fixation means he's all about the texture, and the textures of these chocolates truly do delight. 'Crunchy,' 'silken,' 'chewy,' 'crispy,' 'oozy goodness,' and 'extreme' are words that just seem to fail in adequacy of description.

If you were to just stumble on these chocolates—say, for instance, if you didn't read this ode to Glacier Confections and weren't one of the insiders already familiar with these—the visual appeal alone would be enough to capture your rapt attention. Simply outstanding!

Even before you even get to the melty morsels, Glacier Confections' packaging is unique and absolutely noteworthy. We love giving these chocolates as gifts to highly deserving people, just to see their delight at the gorgeous boxes in which the chocolates arrive! Many of our friends have kept the boxes long after the lovely aroma has evaporated into the ether.

Bring a Dessert Truffle Selection to the next dinner party you attend and the closed box will sell the gift, but open it up and the 'oohs and ahhs' are audible and aggressive. Silence does follow the initial consumption, but only until the tongue finishes savoring the flavors. Sometimes we admit, all you hear for a while is a low murmured 'mmmmmmmmmm' sound.

Each of the chocolates is a miniature work of art, making each one a foodie treasure. Named one of the top 10 North American chocolatiers, the world will beat a path to Bill Copeland's door and probably leave a trail of drool, to boot. With interesting ingredients, inventive flavors, alluring appearances and perfect presentation, Glacier Confections brings class and charm to Tulsa's table. Dessert every day—yay! ~
